Success and Remote Productivity
Defined success as maintaining high productivity and consistent daily output.

Process Improvement and Communication
Praised departmental process improvements and confirmed routine checks on agent lists.

Management Transition and Hours
Discussed management transition with expectations to keep working hours under 42 hours weekly.

Decisions

Aligned

- Weekly working hours cap of 42 Management established a policy standard requiring weekly working hours to stay under 42 hours.

Next steps

- [ ] [Michael Barreto] Send Agent List: Provide the current list of assigned agents to Seven Brooksby.

Details

- Michael Barreto's Background and Definition of Success: Michael Barreto discussed their educational background in international business and supply chain, highlighting their current focus on data analysis to improve efficiency and achieve more with fewer resources. Seven Brooksby asked how Michael Barreto defines success in a remote role. Michael Barreto defined success as maintaining consistency, high productivity in daily tasks, and meeting or exceeding expected quantified output levels (00:01:24).
- Collaborative Problem-Solving Approach: Seven Brooksby inquired about what kind of help Michael Barreto prefers when colleagues reach out (00:02:43). Michael Barreto explained they prefer a proactive approach where team members present a problem along with a proposed solution for evaluation, which enables them to better visualize the scenario and provide effective assistance (00:03:39).
- Application of Business Background and Self-Employee Mentality: Seven Brooksby asked if Michael Barreto wished to apply aspects of their business degree or personal experiences to daily work. Michael Barreto noted that running a household parallels business management through handling people, supplies, and finances, and expressed a commitment to remaining a valuable asset to the company using a self-employee mentality (00:04:35). Seven Brooksby added that their data work presents an opportunity to prove ten times their worth (00:05:48).
- Process Improvements and Departmental Mindset: Seven Brooksby asked about any compliance, checklist, or process pain points. Michael Barreto stated they do not complain about issues, but instead offer constructive solutions and maintain transparency (00:06:56). Michael Barreto praised the department's ongoing commitment to continuous process improvement (00:07:46).

- Open Communication and Agent Tracker List Verification: Seven Brooksby emphasized an open-door policy and an innovation-focused mindset. Seven Brooksby then raised a concern that new agents, such as Patrick, might be missed on the agent lists (00:08:46). Michael Barreto confirmed they routinely check and update the aim team tracker list and manage emails to stay current (00:09:36). Seven Brooksby requested that Michael Barreto send their current personnel list, which Michael Barreto agreed to provide (00:10:42).
- Management Transition and Work Hours Expectation: Brad Wilson joined to discuss the management transition from Aaron, with Michael Barreto expressing relief that Aaron would no longer be overwhelmed and that Seven Brooksby would focus on team efficiency (00:10:42). Brad Wilson explicitly outlined the expectation to keep working hours under 42 hours per week to maintain operational efficiency (00:11:44). Brad Wilson stated that Seven Brooksby would monitor these hours, and Michael Barreto should direct any further concerns through Seven Brooksby. Seven Brooksby concluded the meeting by proposing bi-weekly check-in meetings (00:12:36).

Intro-Meeting - Transcript

00:00:00

Michael Barreto: It was my my experience was always about um you know customer service and I'm uh I'm actually graduated in business mainly in um the international business part for supply chain but Seven Brooksby: Oh, wow.

Michael Barreto: yeah but I I really love this you know uh this part of my my career now that I've been learning through, you know, how to collect data and to look into in more detail, you know, and to see parts that we can improve,

Seven Brooksby: It's cool.

Michael Barreto: things that we can um make it better, you know, more efficient and um and especially because right now the moment we are in the market, we need to do more with less. And yeah, it's a it's a great opportunity to improve processes, you know, and all these kind of things. And I'm sure it's very it's valuable, you know, what um the experience I'm gathering here. And and like I said to Brad, you know, I'm not going anywhere. I either going to move to Utah or know you guys will will have to, you know, to uh keep video, you know, uh meeting me all the time.

00:01:24

Seven Brooksby: That'd be awesome. We'd love to have you in Utah. Um, and thank you for kind of sharing more about yourself. Um then I guess my role is I want to help our team and department just be successful as we can. Um but especially on the individual level for you, Michael. Um so what does success in your role look like for you? And like what would you say it feels like? Because I know some days you're not getting as many checklists as you would another week. So for you, how would you defined it success? Just so by your definition, I can ensure I do everything in my part to make sure that we're helping you achieve that. If that makes sense.

Michael Barreto: Right. Yeah, totally. And I like that question, you know, cuz I I think one of the I the challenge, you know, of working remotely is to be uh consistent and productive, you know, um during our shifts, you know, and this is the part where I realize that success is um I I can relate success too, you know, like if you really uh put the effort to stay consistent on your daily activities, on your tasks, and be productive, you know, and yeah, be true to yourself, you know, to what you're doing.

00:02:43

Michael Barreto: And at the end of the day, you're going to be able to deliver what is expected from you. Um especially uh if we can quantify you know the things that we need to do that's even you know easier for us to say okay he is he's doing what he's supposed to do because you know he he needs to produce at this level and he's producing at this level and you know um yeah he's and I think success is related to that if you can produce um or even you know what is expected or even beyond what expected from you

Seven Brooksby: You're done. Cool. Yeah, that gives me a lot to work with. Thank you. Um, then the other question I had, this is kind of more of a unique one. Um, but if someone on our team need was needed help with something, what would you wish that we would ask you? Like for example, Brad or let's say like if anyone came in from any department, they came and said,"Shoot, we need help. Michael, Seven Brooksby: we need your help." What would you wish they would ask you for help with? Does that make sense?

00:03:39

Michael Barreto: Yeah. Uh, most of the time, you know, I I'm a kind of, you know, I'm a very proactive person. If I have a question, for example, I try to bring solution as well to see what you think about that solution and if you have any any other thoughts, you know, that I can um rely on it. So um if someone needs my help, I would expect say,"Hey, Michael, I have this problem and I'm thinking about doing this. What do you think about this?" You know, and then I I need I I think that way I can visualize what the the scenario is and I be able to uh you know, better help them find the solution or either answer their question, you know.

Seven Brooksby: Cool. I see it. Funny that kind of the way you worded that. I definitely see the same way you define success. I saw I saw parallels. That's cool.

00:04:35

Seven Brooksby: Um and sorry, I got a couple more then I should be out of them there.

Michael Barreto: No, go ahead. You're good.

Seven Brooksby: um because of your business degree um is there things that whether doesn't have to be just from your business degree or hobbies or is there or side projects is there something that you wish you could be implementing more in your day-to-day work like oh I know this about supply chains and I wish that I had opportunity to apply this somehow or I'm working I know your truck isn't as easy to put into a work setting but you work on X Y and Z at home like oh I wish there was a way I could apply this into my day-to-day work life

Michael Barreto: Yeah,

Seven Brooksby: Is there anything?

Michael Barreto: I yeah, I definitely uh do that a lot. You know, I think uh you know, running a business or a house or you know um it's kind of the same thing. You gota um you know, you have to manage people. You have to manage uh supply, you you have to manage finances like so many things at the same time, you know, and you only find balance when you when you can handle all the situations in this, you know, this um kind of scenarios.

00:05:48

Seven Brooksby: Hey, please.

Michael Barreto: And one of the things that I I think I um and I believe this is I just wanted to continue to be uh an important like uh asset to the company and help and you know and uh as much as I can and I'll be glad if they can see me as you know an opportunity to do other stuff but right now I really need to be focused on what I have to Seven Brooksby: Cool.

Michael Barreto: do and yeah I'm I'm always available if they need me for something else and um and for for my position right now I try to apply and implement as as much as I can. You know, the the you know, I think one of the core values that we have is this um self-employee mentality and that's what I do. You know,

Seven Brooksby: And I think yeah, we're in a unique position where with what we do with data, they talk about employees being 10 times their worth. I think that we really have a chance right now to prove that to a lot of people, showing kind of what we do and how it's 10 times what our worth is.

00:06:56

Seven Brooksby: So I'm really excited for you to be a core part of that. Um, and being really valuable that way. Then kind of last question I have because I feel like very beginning I normally like to say what wins, but you talked a lot about the wins at the beginning. Um, so kind of opposite there is do you have any pain points as far as like processes like oh the compliance tool is really slow or I wish that this was different about check like how we do checklist or just anything at all with the company or things that you're dealing with that are pain points that I should be aware about so I can I don't want to promise I can fix everything right away but I definitely want to do my best to make things easier for you if there are issues like that.

Michael Barreto: I I appreciate that question. Um, but like I said, you know, in the beginning, I'm not a kind of person that I be complaining about things. I either going to bring you like,"Hey, seven, I'm seeing this. Can we handle this this way or that way?

00:07:46

Michael Barreto: You know, and then I'm going try to help you. Uh but you know, I you know, I I've I'm going to always be, you know, very transparent to you. If I see things that can improve and I'm not going to hold, you know, myself to say something that I see it's not correct, it's not working.

Seven Brooksby: You did it.

Michael Barreto: Uh but I either will always offer you, you know, my hand to help you out or anything that you need, you know. But yeah,

Seven Brooksby: Sweet.

Michael Barreto: but right now I don't I don't see anything, you know, that we can say, hey, definitely this is I think we're um I think the whole department has, you know, the the mindset of we need to continue to uh improve the processes, you know. So, and I'm sure that you guys are focused on that, too, you know. So, and um but like I said, you know, whenever you guys need for anything, I'm available. Hey, hey, Michael, what do you think about this project? Do you want to join?

00:08:46

Michael Barreto: I never say no. I'm a yes person.

Seven Brooksby: love that. Um because yeah, in my head I want to have an open door policy. I just I'm always happy to meet. I'm always happy to communicate.

Michael Barreto: Me,

Seven Brooksby: Um and I am day on innovation,

Michael Barreto: too.

Seven Brooksby: always looking to improve things. If you're like,"Hey, this is weird. Why do we do this?" I'm either happy to explain the why or maybe we need to change it. I'm totally open for that and I'm really excited to for that going forward. Um,

Michael Barreto: Yeah.

Seven Brooksby: that's kind of all like the understanding Michael questions I have. The only other thing I had is um, as far as calls with the two agent lists, I did notice that maybe some new agents maybe are getting missed.

Michael Barreto: Heat.

Seven Brooksby: Have you and Sophia like updated like who you guys like for example Patrick is someone that's new. Have you guys assigned that to each other? If not, I'll go ahead and I can I'll look at the list and make sure they're even.

00:09:36

Seven Brooksby: Um I was just seeing if you guys when someone like leaves or is let go, do you guys have a way to fill in with the new one already set up or

Michael Barreto: I believe so because I am always um checking the aim team you know the list the aim tracker list for the teams and um last time I already updated the the team members because they redivided and there has been like lots of changing you know, like teams there. But, um, today I already checked it and I see, um, that they did not change since last time. So, I'm glad that didn't happen, you know. So, yeah, it's it's still the same. So, but yeah, I'm always on top of those things, you know. I'm always trying to, you know, um, if there's anything that I need to do, for example, I came in this morning, I had a bunch of emails, you know, for policies, for from Aram, for everything. I'm I'm always trying to be, you know, up to date with all my things, you know, I I never I try to not miss it, you know, things that are important.

00:10:42

Michael Barreto: So, and yeah, uh and if I do have a question, um yeah, believe me, I won't hesitate to reach out and ask you.

Seven Brooksby: Sweet. Um, but yeah, that's kind of everything here on my end. Just at the end of the meeting, if you could just send me the list of your people. Um, I know you sent me one I think a month or two ago. If you could just send me your your current ones and I'll I'll go off that. I think that's all I need on my end.

Michael Barreto: walking. Sounds good.

Brad Wilson: Cool. And Michael, I'm here mainly just because I want to make sure this is a smooth transition for you over. And so I guess first I just say, you know, is there do you have any questions about about the transition? Any things that we need to wrap up as we switch from one manager to another?

Michael Barreto: No, I love it. Yeah, I think it's going to be easier now. Um, and yeah, to be honest, I I I was thinking, you know, that Aaron was kind of overwhelmed, you know, he had a lot on his plate since he's doing like the he was like going to be the Yeah.

00:11:44

Michael Barreto: the the manager. But right now, I think it's going to be better, you know, because we still have like a kind of, you know, u things to update on the checklist and everything. So, I think it's going to be a, and I say this with good eyes, you know, and I appreciate it that we're going to have someone there that we can directly go and and they're going to be focused as much as on the things that we need to do, you know.

Brad Wilson: Yeah. Yeah, I agree. And I think it'll be great to have him focused on getting more work coming to you guys and then then seven

Michael Barreto: Uh-huh.

Brad Wilson: helping you guys accomplish all of that efficiently. So cool. One thing that did come to attention that I want to make sure is cleared up before we transition to a new manager is just regarding the hours worked. Um, I believe Aaron talked to you about this before and I have um keeping your hours under 42 hours for the week.

00:12:36

Brad Wilson: Um, just with the shift in the company,

Michael Barreto: Yeah.

Brad Wilson: you know, where things are right now, we're trying to make sure we're being efficient and using that time effectively. So, I just want to make sure that was clear that that we do have that expectation to to stay under the 42 for now.

Michael Barreto: Okay,

Brad Wilson: So,

Michael Barreto: sounds good. Yeah. 42.

Brad Wilson: Yep. Yep. So anyway, that's right now we're definitely looking at anyways we can just continue to be efficient and and operate well. So just want to make sure that was clear that that's passed on. Um seven will monitor that for you. And you know if you have additional feedback,

Michael Barreto: Uhhuh.

Brad Wilson: if you have needs and things, push those up through seven as far as any concerns or questions and we'll we'll do our best to help you with that.

Michael Barreto: Mhm. Awesome. No. Yeah.

Brad Wilson: Cool.

Michael Barreto: Um I think I'm good. Yeah.

Brad Wilson: Well, we really do I I super appreciate all you do, Michael. You You're absolutely a team player. Every time we've needed you to step up and do something else, you're always willing, you know, so it's it's great to work with you and I'm excited to have Seven there working and with you as well. So,

Brad Wilson: Yep.

Seven Brooksby: Sweet. Well, thanks everybody for taking the time. Uh, I'll I'll probably do these just check-ins maybe once every two weeks. Um, but of course, if you ever have anything you need, please don't hesitate to reach out and we can meet as frequently as we need. Okay.

Michael Barreto: Yeah, I'm sure it will do way more than that.

Seven Brooksby: Yeah, I figure with the AI stuff breaking all the time, I'm sure.

Michael Barreto: Okay,

Seven Brooksby: But anyways,

Michael Barreto: thank you guys.

Seven Brooksby: yeah, see you a little later.

Brad Wilson: Thanks,

Seven Brooksby: Talk later.

Michael Barreto: Take care.

Brad Wilson: Michael. Have a great evening.

Michael Barreto: Bye-bye.

Brad Wilson: Bye.
